DATE - 1975

10 I. STATEMENT OF CASE

11 On September 19, 1975, the Billings Education Association, hereafter 12 referred to as the Association, filed unfair labor practice charges against 13 School District No. 1, Billings, Montana, hereafter referred to as the School 14 District.

15 The Association in substance alleges the School District violated 16 Section 50-1605(1)(a) of the Revised Codes of Montana 1947, by refusing to 17 bargain in good faith on three specific unilateral changes in working conditions.
18 Further, the Association alleges that the School District violated 19 Section 50-1605(1)(z), R.C.M., 1947, by transferring three teachers within 20 the bargaining unit to other positions because of their collective bargaining 21 activities in behalf of the Association, therefore interfering with and 22 restraining said teachers in the exercise of their rights as guaranteed by 23 Section 1603 R.C.M., 1947.

24 Board Chairman Raucci and members Crowley, Reher and Heidber conducted 25 a hearing into the matter on November 6, 1975, in accordance with the 26 Administrative Procedures Act (Title 82, Chapter 47).

27 Emilie Loring of the firm of Hillyer and Loring of Great Falls, Montana, 28 represented the Complainant. John Davidson and Gary G. Broeder of the firm 29 of Davidson, Weeder and Broeder appeared as joint counsel for the Defendant.

30 II. EVIDENTIARY OBJECTION

31 Counsel Loring objected to School District No. 1 Exhibit C as being 32 irrelevant. The document consists of Standards for Accreditation No. 117

1 which calls for the creation of a committee to draw up a staff evaluation 2 procedure, and the report and fiscal instrument developed by the committee.

3 The objection is overruled as the School District has taken the position 4 that a staff evaluation procedure is not a proper subject for collective 5 bargaining. This of course is one of the fundamental issues to be determined 6 in this case and the accreditation standard is necessary for such a determination.

7 Upon the entire record of this case including the testimony of a number 8 of witnesses and briefs, this body makes the following:

9 III FINDINGS OF FACT

10 The Alleged Unilateral Act of Withholding Salary From Teachers on Association¹ 11 Leave

12 1. It was admitted that on September 7, 1975, teachers Barb Franzen, Jerry 13 Jimison, Eugene Cerrone and Edward J. Waller requested a leave of absence from 14 their teaching responsibilities to attend a Montana Education Association 15 Board Meeting.

16 The School District informed these individuals that leave would be 17 granted but that 1/200 of each individual salary would be deducted for each 18 day of absence.

19 2. It was admitted that on September 7, 1975, teachers Marial Solis and 20 Ed Ward requested a leave of absence from their teaching responsibilities 21 to attend a Montana Education Association Leadership Conference.

22 The School District informed these individuals that leave would be 23 granted but that 1/200 of each salary would be deducted for each day of 24 absence.

25 3. It was admitted that prior to this refusal to grant paid leave for 26 Association business, leave requested by members of the Association for 27 attendance of state, regional, and national meetings of the Montana Education 28 Association has been granted without loss of pay. The School District qualified 29 this admission by stating:

30
31 ¹ Association leave refers to leaves of absence taken by certain teachers 32 for participation in the activities of the Billings Education Association or its affiliate.

1 "...policy was never implemented by School District No. 2 and 2 Association leave is now covered by Article III, Section II
3 of the Master Agreement, between the Billings Education 4 Association and School District No. 2 which Agreement was 5 retroactive to July 1, 1975."

6 4. Mr. Paul O'Hare, Superintendent of School District No. 2, testified that 7 although the teachers in question were notified that they would not be paid 8 for leave granted for Association activities, this in fact did not occur and 9 these teachers were given leave with pay. (tr. p. 69)

10 Mr. O'Hare testified further that he wanted to establish "a second 11 concept of 1/200th" with respect to leave for Association meetings and that 12 there was no definite policy governing association leave in the past.² (p. 62)

13 He also testified that he decided to rescind the decision to withhold 14 salary "...because the matter was on the negotiation table and would be 15 governed by the settlement of the agreement." (tr. p. 63)

16 The School District's Adoption of a Staff Evaluation Procedure

17 5. On August 11, 1973, the School District adopted a staff evaluation 18 procedure. Mr. O'Hare testified that this action was taken in order that 19 the School District could comply with the accreditation standard for a staff 20 evaluation as prescribed by the Montana Board of Public Education.³ (tr. pp. 63, 64)
Accreditation Standard No. 117 reads:

21 117. STAFF EVALUATION

22 The board of trustees shall adopt 23 specific policies and procedures for 24 evaluation of certified staff.

25 The policies and procedures shall be 26 developed in consultation with 27 administrators, teachers, other staff
28 members, and students.

29 It is assumed from Defendant's admission and testimony given by Mr. O'Hare 30 that although no "definite" leave policy for Association leave was maintained 31 by the School District, that in fact leave was granted in the past on similar 32 requests and, that he was trying to establish a concept for negotiations which 33 were underway between the two parties.

34 ²Standard for accreditation No. 117 was excerpted from the body of the 35 STANDARDS FOR ACCREDITATION OF MONTANA SCHOOLS AS AMENDED BY THE BOARD OF 36 PUBLIC EDUCATION APRIL 10, 1973.

1 A comprehensive individual personnel 2 file based on specific evaluation of 3 every teacher, principal, supervisor 4 and other certified staff employed in 5 the district shall be maintained. The 6 individual being evaluated shall be 7 provided with a copy of his written 8 evaluation. (School District #2 Exhibit 8)

9 The School District had begun to prepare a staff evaluation procedure in 10 October of 1973. A committee of administrative personnel, teachers, and 11 students was appointed by Mr. O'Hare for the purpose of developing the pro-12 cedure. During the 1974-75 school year, the procedure developed by the 13 committee was used on a trial basis. The staff evaluation procedure adopted 14 on August 11, 1975, was the final product of the committee.

15 6. A proposal on a staff evaluation procedure was included among the initial 16 proposals made by the Association during collective bargaining in January 17 of 1975. Mr. David Sexton, Executive Director of the Association's collective 18 bargaining team, testified that the Association's proposal on staff evaluation 19 was still "on the table" during mediation in July and August and at the time 20 the Association went on strike in October of 1975. (Tr. p. 5)

21 7. The School District claims that a staff evaluation procedure is non-22 negotiable. Counsel Broeder has taken the following position:

23 "It now is, and always has been, the position of the 24 defendant that evaluation procedure is not a negotiable 25 item. Previous master agreements have not dealt with 26 this issue on that basis alone, defendant believes that 27 the adoption of the evaluation procedure was not a 28 unilateral change in a negotiated working condition and 29 therefore, complainant's charge is without merit." (Brief p.3)

30 The Association claims that a staff evaluation procedure is a negotiable 31 item and Counsel Loring argues that standard for accreditation No. 117 is 32 silent as to whether or not such a procedure would be an appropriate item for 33 collective bargaining.

34 8. On October 21, 1975, the School District and the Association agreed to 35 the following contract provision for staff evaluation:

36 ARTICLE XVI

37 TEACHER EVALUATION

38 Section 1. Procedure: The School District shall maintain an evaluation

1 procedure for all teachers pursuant to Standards for Accreditation of Montana 2 Schools as adopted by the Board of Public Education.

3 Section 2. Effect: Such evaluation procedure shall be a matter of 4 School District policy and shall not be a part of this Agreement. The 5 evaluation of a non-tenure teacher shall not be subject to the grievance 6 procedure. A tenure teacher's evaluation shall be subject to the grievance 7 procedure.

8 The School District's Action of Precluding Teachers Robert Nicholson, John Truvia, 9 and Robert Landis From Assignment to the "Resource Center" at Billings Senior High,

10 9. In April of 1975, the mathematics department at Billings Senior High School 11 met to discuss class schedules for the coming school year. The meeting was 12 called by Mr. Vern McDermott, chairman of the department because Mr. McDermott 13 wanted to receive staff input before he prepared the proposed class schedules 14 that were to be submitted to Mr. Albert Collins, school principal. Such a 15 meeting is held each year in order that the ten or so members of the department 16 might indicate their preferences on class assignment.

17 Part of the proposal prepared by Mr. McDermott after the department 18 meeting included a recommendation to Mr. Collins that Mr. Robert Nicholson,⁴ 19 a mathematics teacher at the high school, be assigned six periods in the 20 "resource center" for the 1975-76 school year. The resource center is an 21 experimental facility (the facility has been in operation for more than five 22 years) which provides mathematics instruction in addition to that which students 23 may receive in traditional mathematics courses. The center provides computer 24 hardware, calculators, and other equipment that is used by students during 25 study periods or after school. Individual students or a whole class may also 26 utilize the center for special projects.

27 The School District has experimented with various staffing schedules 28 for the center in recognition of the need for instructional aid to students.
29

30 ⁴Mr. Nicholson has been assigned to the resource center every year since its 31 inception but this year. During the 1974-75 school year he was assigned two periods 32 of approximately one hour duration. Mr. Nicholson is an active member of the Association. He was past vice-president of the Association for the 73-74 school year and president for the 1974-75 school year. During negotiations for the 1975-76 school year, he served as an advisor to the Association's contract negotiations team.

1 utilizing the center. The resource center is characterized by an unstructured 2 classroom atmosphere which is different from classroom instruction in general.

4 This proposed schedule which assigned Mr. Nicholson six full periods 5 in the resource center was posted on the master board in the assistant 6 principal's office during the first week of June as is customary.

8 10. On or about the fifteenth of July, Mr. McDermott was told by Mr. Collins 9 that there had been "a change in policy" in that no teacher would be assigned 10 for more than one period in the resource center. (tr. p. 14) Mr. McDermott 11 did not take issue with Mr. Collins' decision and set out immediately to 12 prepare a new schedule.

13 Mr. Collins testified that Mr. Winston E. Weaver, Assistant Superintendent 14 of Secondary Education, had expressed to him early in July that the "trustees 15 felt we had to spread the load as directed to drop the schedule which would 16 have been very similar to the schedule we had last year which we had basically 17 one person in the lab each of six periods." (tr. p. 75)

18 Mr. Weaver testified that this communication to Mr. Collins was the 19 direct result of a school board meeting held early in July in which the 20 school board expressed its concerns to Mr. Weaver that one teacher assigned 21 to the unstructured classroom situation in the resource center may create 22 an inequity in the distribution of teacher load. It appears that the school 23 board felt that an assignment in the resource center did not require class 24 preparation and plans nor the grading of papers and was not as difficult as 25 more conventional teaching assignments. Therefore, the school board felt that 26 the assignment of instructional duties in the resource center should be more 27 evenly distributed amongst the staff. (tr. p. 67)

28 Mr. McDermott prepared two new schedules for Mr. Collins. Mr. Collins 29 chose the schedule which called for six teachers to be assigned one period 30 each in the resource center. About the same time Mr. McDermott informed 31 Mr. Nicholson that the first schedule had been changed and that he would only 32 be assigned one period in the resource center.

33 Mr. Nicholson took exception with this schedule change and informed 34 Mr. McDermott that he would talk with Mr. Collins about it. Mr. Nicholson

1 did meet with Mr. Collins shortly thereafter and expressed his concern 2 that this new schedule was in conflict with the concept which was reflected 3 to the math department's original recommendation. This recommendation was 4 based on the concept that one person assigned to the center could provide more 5 continuity in instruction and would allow for better utilization and maintenance 6 of the available materials and teaching aids.

7 Mr. Nicholson testified that Mr. Collins agreed that no more than two 8 people should be assigned to the resource center and asked Mr. Nicholson to 9 prepare a rationale to this effect.

10 Mr. Collins testified that he told Mr. Nicholson to prepare the rationale 11 in order that he could "present it to the total administration which means my 12 immediate superiors, Mr. O'Hare and Mr. Sorrente⁵ and Mr. Weaver." (tr. p. 76) 13 Mr. Collins presented the rationale to his superiors in early August and 14 the reaction he received to the concept of having fewer than six teachers in 15 the resource center was "quite favorable." (tr. p. 77)

16 Mr. Collins then went back to Mr. McDermott and informed him that "we 17 would have permission to again restructure the center assignment, utilizing 18 hopefully two and if not just two, possible three people." (tr. p. 78) He 19 also testified that when he was queried by Mr. McDermott concerning the possi-20 bility of assigning Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Landis⁶ in the resource center, he told 21 Mr. McDermott that all of these problems are coming over the problem of conflict 22 of interest between the BEA activities and the freedom of the math center 23 assignment, that we could avoid the problem if we didn't put such highly 24 involved people in the math center and we should look to other possibilities."
25 (tr. p. 79)

26 Mr. McDermott testified that Mr. Collins told him that the decision had 27 been made to staff the center with fewer than six people. He also stated:

29 ⁵Mr. William Sorrente is assistant superintendent of the district.

30 ⁶Mr. Landis has taught mathematics at Billings Senior High for seven years 31 and has been assigned to the resource center every year with the exception of the 32 first year it was established and the 76-77 school year. He has been an active member of the Association and up to now served on the Joint Association, School District Extra Pay Committee. He also served as salary committee chairman for three years.

1 "He (Mr. Collins) said however that it was felt that 2 Mr. Landis, or that Mr. Nicholson had been spending 3 too much time on BEA business while assigned to the 4 resource center. He asked me that when I made out 5 the schedule that I do not place Mr. Landis, Mr.
6 Nicholson, or Mr. Travis as an assignment in the 7 resource center." (tr. p. 15)

8 Mr. McDermott then told Mr. Collins that if this was the case with 9 Mr. Nicholson, Mr. Travis and Mr. Landis, then Mrs. Jellison should not be 10 assigned to the resource center because she was also becoming very active in 11 the Association. Mr. Collins did not reply to this suggestion. He did 12 suggest to Mr. McDermott that both he and a Mr. Bruns should be assigned to 13 the schedule.

14 Mr. McDermott then prepared a third schedule as directed by Mr. Collins 15 and asked Mr. Collins to sit in on the math department meeting at the beginning 16 of the school year to explain the change in the schedule. Mr. Collins declined 17 to do so and Mr. McDermott testified that Mr. Collins stated that "this was a 18 matter that was personal between him and Mr. Nicholson and that he would 19 rather handle it with Mr. Nicholson individually rather than involve the math 20 department." (tr. p. 17)

21 Mr. Nicholson did meet with Mr. Collins at the beginning of the school 22 year and was told that his written rationale had aided in obtaining a change 23 in the scheduling to fewer than six people in the resource center but that he 24 Mr. Landis and Mr. Travis would not be assigned to the resource center.
25 Mr. Nicholson testified that "he (Mr. Collins) said it was felt by people who 26 made the decision that there was too much time being spent on BEA business."
(tr. p. 39)

27 Although the record is somewhat unclear on this point, it appears that the 28 final schedule prepared by Mr. McDermott was implemented and that Mr. McDermott 29 and Mr. Bruns now staff the resource center six periods per day.

30 The School District's Charge That Too Much Time Was Being Used For BEA Activities
31 by Certain Teachers Assigned to the Resource Center

32 In defense of its action to bar certain teachers from assignment in the 33 resource center, the school district argued and presented evidence to the effect 34 that Mr. Nicholson's assignment to the resource center was being abused in that

1 Mr. Nicholson was using too much school time to carry out his duties for the 2 Association.

3 Mr. Weaver testified that during the 1974-75 school year he had personally 4 visited Mr. Nicholson's class during the second period for six days and did not 5 find Mr. Nicholson present. He initially visited the class to pay Mr. Nicholson 6 a compliment and not finding him there he returned each day during second period.
7 Mr. Weaver reported the fact he could not find Mr. Nicholson in his class at the resource center for over a week to Mr. Collins.

8 Mr. Weaver testified further that he remained in the center for five or 9 ten minutes on each occasion and did not inquire of anyone until the fourth or 10 fifth day where Mr. Nicholson might be found. He then asked Mr. Collins who 11 also did not know the whereabouts of Mr. Nicholson.

12 Mr. Nicholson testified to a plethora of reasons which might have caused 13 his absence including checking for attendance (making sure students who were 14 leaving certain classes to attend the resource center got there), picking up 15 materials, teaching another teacher's class and as he testified:

16 "It's also possible I could have been sometimes on BSA business, 17 I don't know, but I don't believe it ever entered into any great degree." (cr. p. 85)

18 Mr. Collins testified that during second period of the 1974-75 school year 19 and during third period of the 1975-76 school year, Mr. Nicholson spent a consider-20 able amount of time talking with Mr. Rogers, assistant principal of Billings 21 Senior High, mostly about BSA affairs. He also testified that "he had some of 22 the same observations about Mr. Landis as I had about Mr. Nicholson." (tr. p. 83) 23 It appears from the record that Travis' exclusion from the resource center was 24 based on the speculation that he too would spend too much time on BSA activities.

25 The School District also offered further justification for its actions by 26 attempting to show that resource center computer time was being abused by 27 certain teachers in that BSA salary proposals and the like would be prepared 28 on school time.

29 31. There is no evidence on the record that Mr. Nicholson or Mr. Landis have 30 ever been warned, reprimanded or even talked to with respect to their alleged 31 misuse of time on behalf of the BSA. Mr. Nicholson's evaluation for the 32

1 1974-75 school year did not contain any indication that he was abusing his 2 assignment in the resource center. Moreover, the record does not show that 3 any teacher was ever warned about misuse of the resource center before 4 Mr. Collins confronted Mr. McIver with this problem.

5 14. It is on rare occasion that the spring schedule developed by the math 6 department is changed. It is even more infrequent that Mr. Weaver and his 7 superiors become involved in the specifics of class scheduling.

8 15. Billings West High School has a facility very much similar to the resource 9 center. The staffing schedule for this facility was not subjected to the same 10 concerns that had characterized the scheduling of the resource center at 11 Billings Senior High.

DISCUSSION

13 The first aspect of the charge concerning the School District's refusal 14 to grant Association leave with pay can be dealt with in summary fashion.
15 The facts are that although the School District had intended to withhold 16 pay for teachers on leave for Association business, this was not carried 17 through. It is difficult to ascertain from the record just what the School 18 District's motivation was in this regard, and it is our hope that the 19 establishment of a negotiating "concept" will not in the future intentionally 20 be achieved through a threatened unilateral act or an act itself. Under these 21 considerations we find that this aspect of the charge should be dismissed.

22 The second aspect of the charge which alleges that the School District's 23 adoption of a staff evaluation procedure in August of 1975 constituted a 24 unilateral act indicative of the School District's failure to bargain with 25 the required good faith, poses for this body a difficult issue. It is the 26 School District's position that a staff evaluation procedure is a non 27 negotiable item. Following this argument to its logical conclusion, a staff 28 evaluation procedure could then be adopted at the will of the School District 29 regardless of any proposals made in this regard by the Association. The School 30 District also contends that even if the staff evaluation procedure were a 31 proper subject for collective bargaining, its adoption of such a procedure in 32 August of 1975 was not a unilateral act but rather the culmination of a lengthy

2 process⁷ which began well before the Association made its first proposal on 3 this item.

4 This issue necessitates a careful approach. The first of a number of 5 questions to be answered is whether or not a staff evaluation procedure is 6 a subject suitable for collective bargaining. Section 59-1605(3) R.C.M., 7 1947 states:

- 8 (3) For the purpose of this act, to bargain collectively is 9 the performance of the mutual obligation of the public 10 employer, or his designated representatives, and the 11 representatives of the exclusive representative to meet 12 at reasonable times and negotiate in good faith with respect 13 to wages, hours, fringe benefits, and other conditions of 14 employment, or the negotiation of an agreement, or any 15 question arising thereunder, and the execution of a written 16 contract incorporating any agreement reached. Such obli-
17 gation does not compel either party to agree to a proposal 18 or require the making of a concession.

19 This language parallels Section 8(d) of the National Labor Relations Act 20 and the cases are legion in which the National Labor Relations Board and the 21 courts have carefully reasoned the scope of subjects which are in fact "other 22 conditions of employment" and properly addressed in the collective bargaining 23 process. It is obviously most desirable that labor and management identify 24 and agree upon those items which require bargaining for stable relations.
25 However as the NLRB and even state agencies have found, this possibility is 26 sometimes unachievable and determinations on the bargainability of certain 27 items must be made on a case by case basis. We approach this responsibility 28 with some reservation. However, at stake is the very stability of labor-29 management relations in this state and we feel that the policies of the Act 30 must be effectuated.

31 The staff evaluation procedure presents an interesting item. The pro-32 fessional evaluation of a teacher is a complex process reflective of the task 33 for which it is intended. The School District has argued that a staff evaluation 34 procedure is a "management prerogative" and although reference was not made 35 to Section 1603(2) R.C.M., 1947, perhaps this section of the Act deserves our 36 attention. It reads:

37 ⁷We are referring to the evidence dealing with the School District's 38 efforts to comply with Standard for Accreditation No. 117.

- 2 (2) Public employees and their representatives shall recognize the 3 prerogatives of public employers to operate and manage their affairs in 4 such areas as but not limited to:
5 (a) direct employees;
6 (b) hire, promote, transfer, assign, and retain employees;
7 (c) relieve employees from duties and because of lack of work or funds 8 or under conditions where continuation of such work be inefficient and 9 nonproductive;
10 (d) maintain the efficiency of government operations;
11 (e) determine the methods, means, job classifications, and personnel 12 by which government operations are to be conducted; 13 (f) take whatever actions may be necessary to carry out the missions 14 of the agency in situations of emergency; 15 (g) establish the methods and processes by which work is performed.

16 The legislature has not left to presumption that public employees possess 17 the prerogatives necessary to "manage their affairs." We also note however, 18 the Act is absent any express language which prohibits management from 19 bargaining on just how those prerogatives are to be exercised or in fact 20 how far they extend. We agree that a staff evaluation procedure involves 21 management prerogative yet even the subject of wages involves management 22 prerogative.

23 Further analyzing this problem, we note a basic inconsistency in the 24 School District's position. As aforementioned, the collective bargaining 25 agreement negotiated for the 1975-76 school year (School District Exhibit A) 26 provides that the product of the staff evaluation procedure⁶ is subject to 27 the grievance procedure and ultimately binding arbitration. The fact that the 28 School District has seen fit to collectively bargain both through the negotia-29 tions process and the grievance procedure on the product of the evaluation 30 procedure and yet refuses to bargain on the substance of that procedure defies 31 reason.

32 Further, an item which involves an employee's reasonable expectation of 33 employment security such as an evaluation procedure, should not be arbitrarily

34 ⁶Under the terms of the contract, the staff evaluation procedure itself is 35 a matter of School District policy and the evaluation of tenured teachers is 36 subject to the grievance procedure.

1 excluded from the form of collective bargaining. We also note that Standard 2 for Accreditation No. 117 does not preclude the possibility of collective 3 bargaining and does in fact recognize a need for teacher input.

4 The second question that must be addressed is that since a staff evaluation
5 procedure is bargainable, did the School District act unilaterally and in bad 6 faith in its adoption of the procedure on August 11, 1975? The record shows that 7 the Association had included in its first package of proposals in January of 8 1975, a specific proposal on staff evaluation. That proposal remained on the 9 table well after August 11, 1975.

10 The National Labor Relations Board provides useful insight into the problem 11 at hand. In NLRB Katz, 369 US 736, 50 NLRB 2177 (1962), the U.S. Supreme Court 12 gave express recognition of the NLRB's per se doctrine. The court characterized 13 the employer's unilateral changes in conditions of employment in these terms 14 on page 743:

15 A refusal to negotiate (in fact) as to any subject which is within 16 Section 8d⁹ and about which the union seeks to negotiate, violates 17 Section 8(a)(5)¹⁰ though the employer has every desire to reach agreement with the union upon and over all collective agreement and earnestly and in all good faith bargains to that end.

18 This reasoning has been further expanded and distinguished and in Katz, 19 the Court did note however, that certain circumstances might justify unilateral 20 employer action (i.e. necessity, waiver, etc.). Yet the facts of the case at 21 hand do not justify the School District's action and therefore do not exempt 22 the School District from the duty to bargain with the Association on a staff 23 evaluation procedure.

24 From the foregoing, it must be concluded that the School District has not

25
26 ⁹Section 8d reads in part:

27 For the purposes of this section, to bargain collectively is the 28 performance of the mutual obligation of the employer and the representa-29 tion of the employees to meet at reasonable time and confer in good 30 faith with respect to wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employ-31 ment, or the negotiation of an agreement, or on question arising thereunder, and the execution of a written contract incorporating any agreement reached if, requested by either party, but such obligation does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or require the making of a concession.

32 ¹⁰Section 8(a)(5) reads to refuse to bargain collectively with the representatives of his employees, subject to the provisions of Section 8(a).

3 bargained with the required good faith. This conclusion immediately poses 4 another problem in that an agreement containing a provision covering an evaluation 5 procedure was negotiated by the parties in October of 1975. The School District 6 argues that this fact has rendered moot this unfair labor practice complaint 7 and that no appropriate remedies are available to this Board.

8 Section 59-1603(2) R.C.M., 1967, reads in part:

9 If upon the preponderance of testimony taken the board is of the 10 opinion that any person named in the complainant has engaged in or 11 is engaging in an unfair labor practice, it shall state its findings 12 of fact and shall cause to be served on the person an order 13 requiring him to cease and desist from unfair labor practice, 14 and to take such affirmative action, including reinstatement of 15 employees with or without back pay, as will effectuate the policies 16 of this act.

17 In order to "effectuate the policies of the act" this body holds that 18 orders in unfair labor practice cases are preventive as well as remedial.
19 This refusal to bargain on a staff evaluation procedure is a matter of prima 20 import not only to the parties to this case but to management and labor groups 21 statewide. It is not enough that the School District and the Association have 22 come to contractual agreement on this subject. The School District must be 23 barred from declaring in the future that a staff evaluation procedure is non-24 bargainsable and must be cognizant of the fact that this board's order imposes 25 a continuing duty to bargain. This reasoning is certainly not original. In 26 NLRB v. Maria Textile Mills 339 U.S. 563, 567, 568 (1950), the U.S. Supreme 27 Court recognized that an NLRB cease and desist order imposes a continuing 28 duty to bargain.

29 Lacking specifically at the question of mootness, the NLRB and the courts 30 again are instructive. In Southern Saddlery Co., 90 NLRB No. 176 (1950) 26 F.W.
31 1322,¹² the NLRB found that the execution of a collective bargaining agreement 32 between the employer and the union after the employer had refused to bargain 33 does not render moot the refusal to bargain charges or preclude the NLRB from 34 entering the customary remedial order. It is well established that conciliatory 35 action such as the execution of a contract after an unfair labor practice has 37 Du. v. NLRB 27 L.R.M. 2878.

1 been committed does not render such charges moot. The U.S. Court of Appeals, 2 Fifth circuit in Hill v. Southern Household Products Co., Inc., Ld. 5 (1971) 3 75 LRRM 2597, found that unfair labor practice violations are not moot even 4 though the employer has negotiated a contract with the union and offered 5 reinstatement to unlawfully discharged employees.

6 Based on these considerations, this body finds that in refusing to bargain
7 over a staff evaluation procedure, the School District has failed to bargain 8 in good faith with the Association and in order to prevent reoccurrence of such 9 action, an appropriate cease and desist order will be fashioned.

10 The third aspect of the first charge alleging that the assignments of 11 three teachers, Robert Landis, Robert Nicholson and John Travis, were changed 12 unilaterally and therefore in violation of Section 59-1605(1)(e) R.C.M., 1947, 13 should be dismissed. The facts are that transfer and assignment of teachers in 14 the School District has been a matter of school district policy and not 15 contractual agreement and that although it is a rare occurrence in the math 16 department at Billings Senior High that an assignment is changed after July 1, 17 it does in fact occur elsewhere within the School District on occasion. We 18 do not find a per se violation here, however, we are concerned with the School 19 District's motivation in changing the assignments which is the issue in the 20 second charge of this case.

21 The second charge which alleges that the school district violated Section 22 59-1605(1)(a) by making the aforementioned changes in teaching assignments is 23 substantiated by the evidence and although it has not been pleaded,¹² the record 24 shows that the School District discriminated against these teachers because of 25 their Association activities. There is overwhelming direct and circumstantial 26 evidence that in preparing the final staff schedule, assignment to the resource 27 center was predicated on the degree of Association activity. Principal Collins 28 and Math Department Chairman McDermit testified directly to this effect.
29 (tr. p. 79 and p. 15) It is also a fact that staff scheduling of the resource

30
31

32 ¹²The Association has not charged that Section 59-1605 (1)(g) R.C.M., 1947 has been violated.

1 center at Billings Senior High has never been subject to such scrutiny until 2 Mr. Richardson and Mr. Landis became so importantly involved in Association 3 business. We also note that the resource center at the other high school in 4 the School District was not subject to the same administrative concerns.

5 This body is aware of the exhaustive study in the private sector of the 6 question of union activity on company property and company time. However, 7 the record in this case does not support the School District's charges that 8 School District property was misused and that actual working time was abused 9 by any teacher. Moreover, the record does show that none of the teachers in 10 question had ever been warned about their participation in Association business 11 during school hours and on school property. Indeed, Mr. Travis was precluded 12 from assignment to the center because it was assumed that his involvement in 13 Association activities would interfere with his work. In light of these facts, 14 the School District's defense for its actions with respect to the scheduling of 15 the resource center is at best insufficient, and we regard such employer inter-16 ference and discrimination seriously. Accordingly, Mr. Richardson and Mr. Landis 17 will be given the right to first refusal of assignment in the resource center 18 for the 1976-77 school year and this shall be ordered in lieu of reinstatement 19 because of the nature of a teaching assignment and the responsibility it places 20 on the teachers involved. Further, the School District must be barred from 21 ever using as a consideration for teacher assignment the fact that a teacher 22 is an active Association adherent and member.¹⁴ Teachers must not be fearful 23 that the exercise of rights guaranteed by Section 59-1603 will result in the 24 loss of the opportunity for desirable teaching assignment.

25 CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

26 School District No. 2 Billings, Montana, violated Section 59-1605(1)(e), 27 R.C.M., 1947 by refusing to bargain with the required good faith on the subject 28 of a staff evaluation procedure and by unilaterally adopting such a procedure 29 on August 11, 1975.

30 _____
31 ¹⁴We recognize that the parties have negotiated scheduled time for 32 Association officers to conduct Association business and are not referring to this fact.

1 The Defendant also violates Section 39-1605(1)(a), R.C.M., 1947 by unlawfully interfering with teachers Robert Nicholson, Robert Landis, and John Travis in the exercise of their rights as guaranteed under Section 39-1603, R.C.M., 1947.

2 Such interference resulted when the Defendant discriminated against the 3 above-named teachers by excluding them from assignment to the Math Resource Center 4 at Billings Senior High on the motivation that these teachers were highly 5 involved in union activities.
